What is Salesforce Lab?

Salesforce Lab is a practical workshop in which Deloitte specialists will show you how to work with the Salesforce platform in the field of programming, configuration and project management. Trainings are divided into two paths: for business consultants and for developers. If you are interested in this offer, you will take part in the first path – for business consultants.

After completing the training, all participants gain the knowledge necessary to start a career in Salesforce and a certificate confirming participation. The best participants will have a chance to get a permanent job offer.

Why is it worth to take part?

- You will see how IT can be used in business
- You will design your own solutions
- You will get to know and understand what working in Agile methodology is about
- You will receive salary
- The best people will receive a job offer in a creative, experienced, dynamic, cheerful team
- You will meet new people, it will be fun and you will definitely not be bored :-)

The number of participants is limited!

The workshops will be held in the form of paid internships in the Deloitte consulting department, which may end with a permanent job offer.

Please be informed that we will contact only selected candidates.
